A celebration of the brands, distilleries and people.

A celebration of the landscape and stories.

A celebration of aromas, flavours and botanicals.

A celebration of distilling, craft and heritage.

Introduction

International Scottish Gin Day, established by The Gin Cooperative in 2018, is the official international celebration of Scottish Gin in the drinks industry calendar, taking place on the first Saturday in October each year.

The day is used by the Scottish Gin industry to showcase their Scottish Gins, highlight their brands and stories through events, promotions, collaborations, partnerships, generates content about Scottish Gin and puts Scottish Gin in the spotlight across social media and other digital channels.

International Scottish Gin Day also a day for retailers and the off-trade, hospitality and the on-trade, journalists, newspapers, publications, bloggers, content creators, and other businesses, organisations and individuals working in Scottish Gin or related industries and media to participate.

From distillery tours and in-store tasting events, online offers and promotions, editorial and news coverage to special International Scottish Gin Day cocktail menus and drinks promotions, International Scottish Gin Day has helped create footfall for businesses, generate Scottish Gin sales, and continues to add value to the term Scottish Gin.

There's no fee's, criteria or set-format for what an International Scottish Gin Day event or promotion looks like, simply it should feature Scottish Gin. The day and build up to the day is there for you to use allowing you to work to your schedule, using your strategy, promoting your event, offers or content in a way that works for you.

In addition, International Scottish Gin Day related content can help create brand awareness and engagement for the businesses and brands involved, connecting, educating and inspiring consumers to learn more about your business, brand, blog and more.

About Us

The Gin Cooperative has been an authoritative, pro-active, positive voice in the world of Scottish Gin since 2017. Established by husband and wife Martin and Natalie Reid, The Gin Cooperative actively works with Scottish Gin brands to help showcase and promote the Scottish Gin category to consumers and trade.

The Gin Cooperative website has grown to be the world's largest premium Scottish Gin resource, featuring the pioneering A to Z Scottish Gin Directory, a comprehensive Scottish Gin Distillery and Experiences directory, original Scottish Gin and industry editorial features and content, downloads, and more.

Co-founders Martin and Natalie Reid have been passionate about Gin since they first discovered the spirit in 2004. In 2017, they saw an opportunity to establish a website and business that would help others discover Scottish Gin.

The Gin Cooperative website is an invaluable resource, rich with educational and insightful content that helps consumers and companies working in the on-trade, off-trade, hospitality, food and drink, and wider spirits supply chain discover Scottish Gin.

Along with establishing The Gin Cooperative, the couple has also established International Scottish Gin Day, The Gin Cooperative Awards, an industry awards programme and ScottishGin.com, a specialist online Scottish Gin retailer.

Martin and Natalie have also travelled the length and breadth of Scotland, visiting Scottish Gin distillers, capturing photos and videos, and interviewing distillers and industry figures, all while balancing a growing number of Scottish Gin-related businesses.

As advocates for Scottish Gin, Martin and Natalie have worked tirelessly to promote the values, stories, brands, people, places, and products that make the Scottish Gin category unique. The Gin Cooperative co-founders have become a well recognised and respected part of the Scottish Gin industry, nurturing industry relationships, developing industry insight and working in collaboration with other businesses to help elevate the term Scottish Gin.

Martin and Natalie are also recognised figures and respected in the wider gin community, actively working with gin bloggers, mixologists, and other industry figures and businesses who share a passion for Scottish Gin.

The Gin Cooperative and International Scottish Gin Day were recognised by the Scottish Government in the Scottish Parliament on Wednesday, 21st of September 2022, for the value and contribution both businesses have made towards helping the growth of the Scottish Gin category on the world stage. MSP Stephanie Callaghan and Carol Ellis, founder of Ellis Gin, put forward the motion.
